

“smart, funny mysteries”-- San Francisco Examiner.com

*“you’ll want to add her books to your library ... they are awesome!!!!”
-- Yolanda Renee, Host of Renee’s Book Talk*

It’s not the first time Regan has experienced déjà-vu. But when the sensation involves finding a second body buried where one was found just weeks before, déjà-vu takes on new meaning.

Someone murdered a girl on her seventeenth birthday, and as Regan delves into the motive behind the girl’s murder, she discovers many people are trying to hide secrets about their entanglement with the dead teenager. Regan must figure out which of them is a murderer, and she has to do it carefully or she’ll become the killer’s next victim.

Santa Cruz, California, real estate agent Regan McHenry, her husband, Tom Kiley, and their friend, police ombudsman Dave Everett are back in a new story of murder. They invite you to come along for the twists and turns of this new mystery.

“cliff-hanging mystery” -- Realtor Magazine

“the puzzles are fun to solve” -- Santa Cruz Sentinel

“well paced, can’t put the book down” -- Conversations-Talk Radio